The new Coronavirus pandemic forces the humanity to live differently. All schools and university closed in many countries. The companies restrained their employees from working in a crowded environment and from travelling. When everyone figures out about the negative impacts of the crisis, we might consider the positive change it will bring to our living. Change from working at home, limiting our trips, reducing our shopping habits and focusing on our family. Working remotely has already become a trend in the western world. Still it is quite new in developing and populated countries. By working remotely, you can work wherever you want, get the job done quicker and more efficiently. This working style is applied by many companies trusting their employees and allowing them to get more responsibility and freedom. The corporations are more and more hiring staff or qualified freelancers working remotely or outside the office. With SaaS business management software, working remotely is the solution during a pandemic and it's becoming safer than ever.
